

NCC partners the Holiday Park & Resort Innovation show

The Holiday Park & Resort Innovation Show returns to Birmingham's NEC on the 7th and 8th of November, and the NCC (National Caravan Council) is delighted to again be partnering with the show as a headline sponsor for 2018.

The event features talks from world class experts, face-to-face advice and inspirational seminars. There are also 350 leading suppliers exhibiting, workshops, networking opportunities and live features – everything needed to help run a holiday park business successfully.

Several NCC members will be speaking, including leisure property experts Savills, holiday park operator Haven, wireless systems technology specialist Ramtech Electronics and park management software company CampManager.

The NCC, who have been representing the parks industry since 1939, will be on stand 1720 with a range of professional advice and membership options for businesses and holiday park operators. NCC Training Academy will also be in attendance on stand 1632 with training advice and specialised skills development for park personnel.

NCC Deputy Director General, Alicia Dunne, said: "The NCC has a clear vision for advancing the parks industry. By working with our members, and through innovative partnerships such as the one we have with this show, we are confident that we can assist park businesses achieve high standards and thrive in the years ahead."

Event Director, Will Mansfield commented: "The event has grown considerably over the last few years and is packed with the most creative products and services from exhibitors, useful information and seminars, all delivering innovative ideas specially aimed at current and future park operators.

Both the Holiday Park & Resort Innovation Show and NCC teams look forward to welcoming you to the NEC Birmingham. Free tickets to attend can be registered for via www.holidayparkshow.co.uk/
